DERRY, N. H., 1918.

We wish to announce that the Junior Class has taken over the editing of the CRITIC, to relieve the Seniors of so much work during their last term. The present board will continue as editors of the CRITIC until the Spring term of 1919.

Once more spring has come, and we are all back from vacation, ready to work harder than ever. Spring is just the time when everyone ought to feel bright and happy, and we students,—especially the Seniors, who will leave us soon,—realize how much P. A. life with its work and play, joys, and yes, sometimes even sorrow means to us.

We wish to express our heartiest welcome to Mr. O'Brien who has recently been elected to the Board of Trustees.

Every P. A. student is as proud as can be of our new service flag which has seventy-two stars.

That means that seventy-two sons of Pinkerton are either fighting for Uncle Sam in France, or are in various training camps of the U. S., what a fine showing our school has made!

It gives you a little thrill, and a queer choking feeling in your throat when you look at those stars, and think that each one stands for a boy who is enduring untold hardships, giving up home, comforts, pleasures, and in some cases, even his life, for the old Red, White and Blue.

Then to think that that same boy once went to P. A., studied the same lessons in the same rooms that we do, had good times much like our good times, and above all thinks just as much of his Alma Mater as we do.

When we think of these things it makes us want to make our school 'THE BEST' and to strive to become the truest and best kind of men and women.

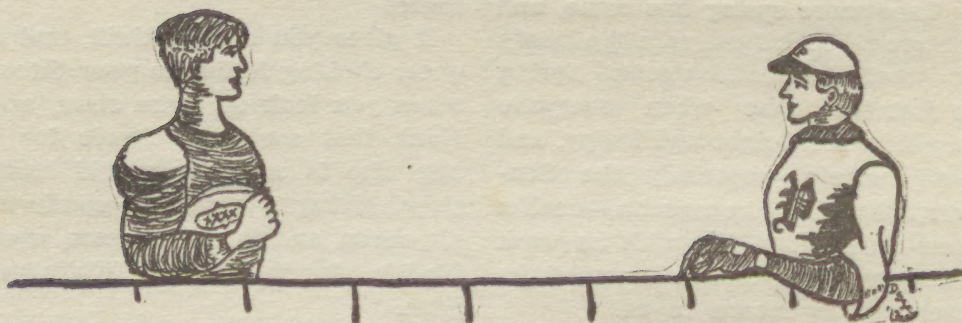

Trustee' Meeting.

The board of Trustees held their March meeting at the Academy, Thursday the 21st. An excellent dinner was given them by the Domestic Science Department, the entire dinner including the service being planned by Miss Emily Clark, '18. An itemized statement showed the exact cost of each course. The dinner was wheatless and meatless.

At the business meeting, the Hon. Frank N. Parsons, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New Hampshire was elected President of the Board. Judge Parsons is a graduate of Pinkerton. He is the eleventh President of this Board in the 105 years history of the Academy.

ATHLETICS

BASEBALL NOTES.

Base Ball practice is now under way and the athletic grounds are drying fast. In spite of the fact that we had no team last year we expect this year, with the help of coach Dyke to put out a winning team. But it is not the players only that are going to win, The School can and MUST get out and back them up. Come to the games and help support the team by showing interest in them and cheering them LOUDLY.

It will not cost you anything (outside a little muscular exertion) to make a noise and I am sure we are all willing to do this in prospect of helping the team to win. DO YOUR BIT.

"Salute the Flag."

Jimmie had been in his country's service nearly six months. Just before sailing he got leave and was on his way home.

As he walked along he noticed a crowd gathering farther down the street. It was a flag raising, and he decided, as he had a few minutes to spare before train time, to stop and watch the proceedings. He was standing beside a short, thick-set man, at the edge of the crowd. When at last Old Glory was being hoisted, and a band began to play the Star Spangled Banner, all men, but the one beside Jimmie, removed their hats and sang.

Jimmie immediately removed the man's hat for him, and at his angry exclamation, the attention of the crowd was drawn to the spot. It was not long before the man was standing on the steps of the building directly under the flag, and the song which a few moments before he had refused to sing, reluctantly poured forth.

While Jimmie ran for his train he said to himself, "Well, that's the first time I put one over on a Hun, but it won't be the last."

"Salute the Flag."

Gugliemo (William) Marconi has made world wide wireless communication possible by his energetic and painstaking experiments. Marconi conducted a great many experiments in Italy and France, but none of them were as successful as in England. Marconi realized very early that the commercial utility of the wireless telegraphy was not confined with ship to shore communication alone.

In 1901 Marconi had built his first high power stations for trans-oceanic communication, at Poldhu, Cornwall, England, and at South Wellsfleet, Cape Cod, U.S.A., but these stations did not prove powerful enough for continuous night and day communication. Soon they located two other higher powered stations at Glace Bay, Nova Scotia and at Clifden, Ireland. These stations proved very efficient for communication over twenty-four hours. The work of designing these stations was an engineering feat which required many experiments.

Since these first stations were built Marconi has located stations in the United States and most of the high power stations in foreign countries belong to the Marconi Company.

Marconi's newest stations are at Bolinas, California, and Marshalls, California. These stations use the duplex system with stations at Ka-huku and Koko Head, Hawaiian Islands. About a year ago direct radio-communication was established with Japan. The Japanese station is located at Funabashi and the apparatus is the very best. The station at Bolinas uses a 300 kilo-watt generator to transmit to the Hawaiian and Japanese stations.

There is hardly a city or town in the world where the Marconi wireless does not reach. Every ship is protected with a Marconi wireless on board. William Marconi has seen his invention a success and he still lives, a man of high rank in the Italian army.

Red Cross.

The Jr. Red Cross, with Miss Reed as supervisor and Marie Barker as president, meets on Monday afternoons at three o'clock at the Pinkerton Library.

Before Christmas, Mrs. Pollard, president of the Derry Red Cross, sent a lot of squares for us to crochet together to make an afghan for the soldiers. When we finished that we knit squares to make another afghan.

When school began after Christmas we made handkerchiefs for the soldiers. 5,000,000 of them are needed and we are trying to make all we can. Come and help us.

We wish more would join the Junior Red Cross. It does not cost anything and it isn't all work. We take turns reading aloud while the others work. We are just finishing Empey's war book, "Over the Top," and have enjoyed it very much. It is very pleasant having some one read to you while you work, and makes the work much easier.

All join our Junior Red Cross, You come and bring some one else with you. The more the merrier. We should like to have every girl in Pinkerton belong and the boys too if they can knit, sew, crochet, or read. Come and you will get something to do. Work for the sake of "Our Boys." They will appreciate it.

Soldier's Letter.

Maine Barracks,
 Portsmouth, N. H.
 May 16, 1917.

Dear Bob.,—

At last I am fulfilling my promise to write to you. This really has been the first opportunity I have had to do so, as I have been kept pretty busy.

I suppose y u would like to know what I have to do, and how I like it: We have to scrub decks, wash clothes, wait on table, wash dishes, shine brass, have gun boat and parade drills, stand guard, sweep decks and scrub the sides of the ship, standing on a board with a chance of falling into the "drink" any time. Outside of these few things, and numerous others, we have little to do,

The part I enjoy the most, is getting up at five-thirty A. M., and standing on the deck while the flag is raised. Let me tell you, Bob, I never expected to experience the "thrill" of which I had often read, but I think I could lick every German on earth, friend Bill included, at five-thirty, each morning. When the red sun is just rising over the waters, and everything is just waking up, it is wonderful to watch the flag—your flag, slowly rise to the top of the pole. You have a funny, chokey feeling in your throat, and you are not ashamed of it either.

Dick and Tom are as black as negroes. I am getting some tan on, too—also some freckles.

It is time for me to go on guard now, Bob, 'Tis a wild night, too.

Well, write soon, and tell all the folks to. Tell ma not to worry as I am perfectly well and happy.

As ever,

FRANK.

Caw! Caw! Caw!

How glad I am to see all the students back for the closing term of school.

Were you surprised to see the pails and buckets hanging from our maple trees? I must tell you something funny that happened. It is about the Domestic Science Girls. They washed their dish towels in what they thought was water, but was really sap.

I don't see much headway being made in the line of base ball. I wonder if the boys have lost all their school spirit?

I went out calling the other night and when I returned I heard a good deal of noise in the Hall. I flew down to see what was going on, but I was too late, they had had a social but were going home. However, I attended the debate last Friday and it sure was a good debate.

Although we have lost two, this last one surely made up for the other two. After the decision of the debate, which you all know was in favor of Pinkerton, a social was held. Music was furnished by different students, and a pleasant time was spent by all. I was glad to see that our boys were cordial to the visiting team, and I'm sure they must have enjoyed themselves as well as the rest.

Now, Boys and Girls, its the last term of school and I hope I shall see many names on the honor list at the close of school.

Caw! Caw!

Junior Philomathean

This first meeting of the Junior Philomathean Society was held on March 13. The members of this society comprise the Freshman and Sophomore classes. The members decided to have only a president and secretary. Harold Blake was elected president and Marie Barker secretary.

The question for the first debate was, Resolved: That Military training should be compulsory in the Preparatory schools. The speakers on the affirmative were Aaron Goodrich and Raymond Morrill; on the negative Harold Blake and Olan Rand. The judges, who were Miss Schoonmaker, Miss Reed and Mr. Dyke, decided in favor of the affirmative.

The second meeting was held on March 21. The question under discussion was, Resolved: That the use of steam has contributed more to civilization than the use of electricity. The affirmative speakers were Marion Cogswell and Richard Wight, on the negative, Marion Aiken and Earl Kelley. Miss Clark, Eileen Perree and Coburn Neal acted as judges and decided in favor of the affirmative.

I Wonder!

I wonder if W. D. '21 had a good time at the last social.

I wonder how C. N. '20 and L. B. '19 like their new positions.

I wonder if C. N. '20 knows how many miles it is from C. M.'s '19 to East Broadway.

I wonder why M. T. '20 comes over to the Derry Grange.

I wonder how A. G. '20 likes the measles.

I wonder why M. T. '20 and E. A. '20 went to the movies Friday P. M.

I wonder why A. T. '20 likes the Freshmen and Grammar School kids.

I wonder why H. W. '19 thought of giving up being editor of the Critic.

I wonder why N. H. '18 keeps her left hand in her pocket. Is she bashful?

I wonder if J. W. '19 is everybody's confidante.

I wonder why E. A. '20 rides home with R. P. '18 every day.

I wonder why L. B. '19 can never keep a girl.

I wonder why E. A. '20 is always crabbing a certain Junior about C. N. '20.

I wonder why C. O. '21 likes the girls so well.

I wonder why R. D. '21 is so bashful.

I wonder why D. S. '19 stops quite often at a brown house.

I wonder why L. F. '19 likes the moonlight waltz best.

I wonder why A. H. '19 forgot to mail a card the night of the social? If his thoughts were in the village?

I wonder why E. M. '19 talks to himself so much? Is he in love?

I wonder how J. W. '19 can keep on such good terms with L. B. '19. She must have an angelic disposition.

I wonder why A. S. '19 prefers sailors to soldiers.

I wonder why C. S. '20 looks so sad these days.

I wonder if the office floor was greased, or what made E. G. '19 fall down fourth period, and L. B. '19 at recess.

Commercial Club.

The Commercial Club, which was organized by the three upperclasses in the commercial department, is proving to be of great aid to its members. The object of the club is to give the students a clear knowledge of the different points of view of various business men which is very interesting as well as helpful.

The first lecture was given Thursday, February 7th by Hon. H. L. Grinnell, upon the subject of "The Income Tax." On Thursday, February 14th, Mr. Tileston gave the second lecture, upon the subject "The Shoe Business," outlining briefly the many operations of making a shoe, also the office work. The next lecture was given Thursday, March 21st, by F. N. Young, who talked upon the subject of "Banking." Thursday, April 4th, Mr F. L. George spoke to the club on "The essentials of the Dry Goods Business" outlining clearly the things to consider in selecting a location for a department store, where to buy, what to buy, and when to buy; qualifications of salesman or saleslady; and other interesting things of the Dry Goods Business.

Other lectures which are expected to be very helpful will be given in the near future by Mr. E. G. Steele, Mr. John C. Chase, Mr. M. C. Mackenzie, Mr. George Algaier and other business men.

The Trustees' Dinner

A dinner for the Pinkerton Trustees is held three or four times a year, on the days when these are held every pupil should learn his (or her, although they will anyway) lesson, for a trustee may be in any of the classes. The food is almost all made by the Domestic Science pupils. There were nine trustees at the one given March 20, 1918. The seniors were all dressed in white and must have been a pleasing sight. One of the trustees is our own principal, Mr. Horne, the other eight are Mr. Chase, Mr. Haynes, Mr. Greenleaf Bartlett, Mr. Abbott, Mr. Clark, Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Parsons and Mr. Haskins. Besides these Mr. Shepard, the treasurer, came. I think the trustees did full justice to the dinner, which was served down at the Old Academy. We hope the trustees will be as pleased with the waitresses next year as they were this time.
